Sh*tlibs equate virginity with "a hymen", because they're unable to process the effect that fornication has on the soul (which they do not believe exist), the psyche (which they believe is a blank state and also cannot be irreversibly shifted) as well as permanent physiological changes beyond just the hymen.

For example, did you know that after the first contact with a male, the immune system suppresses births from subsequent men. Eventually a fornicating woman will become effectively infertile.

Have you heard of male microchimerism? Are you aware that it's not merely the babies that end up with chimerism, but women as well? For certain reasons, after having sex with a man, genetic material from the man ends up in her brain. This somewhat fulfils what is written in the bible, the woman's body becomes one with her man. Imagine doing this with a random person. Imagine doing this with 100 people, or in the coming years, 200 people for the average woman. Perhaps this is why they can never forget the men they've been with. They share all their DNA inside their brains!

[Aside: They blame this on male births, but its seen in women who have never given birth, but all of them have previously had sex.]

Today, the majority of women in the west treat sex like an Uber ride. They use "dating apps" to find men who won't stick around, who have been with thousands of women, and use them to rid themselves of persistent lust. Their pair bonding ability is usually gone by the time they turn 16.

Coupled with all the brainwashing on media and social media, these women essentially turn into men, not merely in psychology but with so much chimeric load, somewhat ... physically. A disturbing thought. More research needs to be done, but unfortunately extraction of this kind of information is highly politicised.

Throughout history, virginity was the gold standard for marriage eligibility. Parents guarded their daughter's virginity and disowned her should she throw it away.

Today, instead of valuing it, people who still understand its value are instead attacked as unreasonable. This won't fly anymore though, as men have largely checked out of this scam.

Take your sh*t-tier literally male-brained daughters and throw them in the gutter. Marriage with a fornicating woman is a homosexual marriage. I guess this is why God gave women a hymen, the same reason we seal products on a shelf. To make sure they haven't been tampered with.

/End

If a woman gives her virginity away to a random man, she should never expect a honest and good man to dedicate his entire life to her.
It's just ridiculous, I swear it makes no sense to me.
And conservatives want us to accept this… because???
lol.
