Korobochka (コロボ) @cirnosad

Feb 11, 2023 • 14 tweets • cirnosad/status/1624391784431517696

The last 500 years saw rule by a very evil force which not only percolated its tentacles through finance, dynasties and politics but also through the creation of "science" [soyance], compartmentalisation of it and undermining/destruction of old knowledge and ancient history.

The names/aims of these people do not matter, if you merely aim to fight them, others will take their system and make it theirs. Evil persists. To destroy it once and for all you must expose the lies within it to a mass of people ready to listen, ready to restore what once was.

The contradictions and coincidence I identified through my studies were too numerous to be by chance and eventually I identified the source and unraveled the entire theme.
And now I will begin to fulfill the promise I made here, and share what I learnt:

I'm going to start on a very very important subject: The origin of oil. Why is this important? Well, I don't want to spoil it, but as you can all see it is a subject that drives public policy and drives wars. It is indeed of utmost importance -- but I have higher aims.

For me it's only a starting example of a commonly held "science" that completely fails and contradicts more established "science". It's a small tear in the larger system but out of it I hope to expose the underlying ideologue and systematic sophistry within the system.
Step one.

There is a repeating theme in the empirical sciences (which has unfortunately infected the hard sciences as I will explain much later, God willing):
- Putative phenomena that occur at untestable scales.
- Theories that contradict physicality.
- Theories that contradict LOGIC.

We will go through material that will lose a lot of people, especially those who have dedicated their entire lives on the subjects. They will refuse to see it.
But will gain friends along the way.

With so many lies around, it is important to remember:

"There is only ONE truth!"

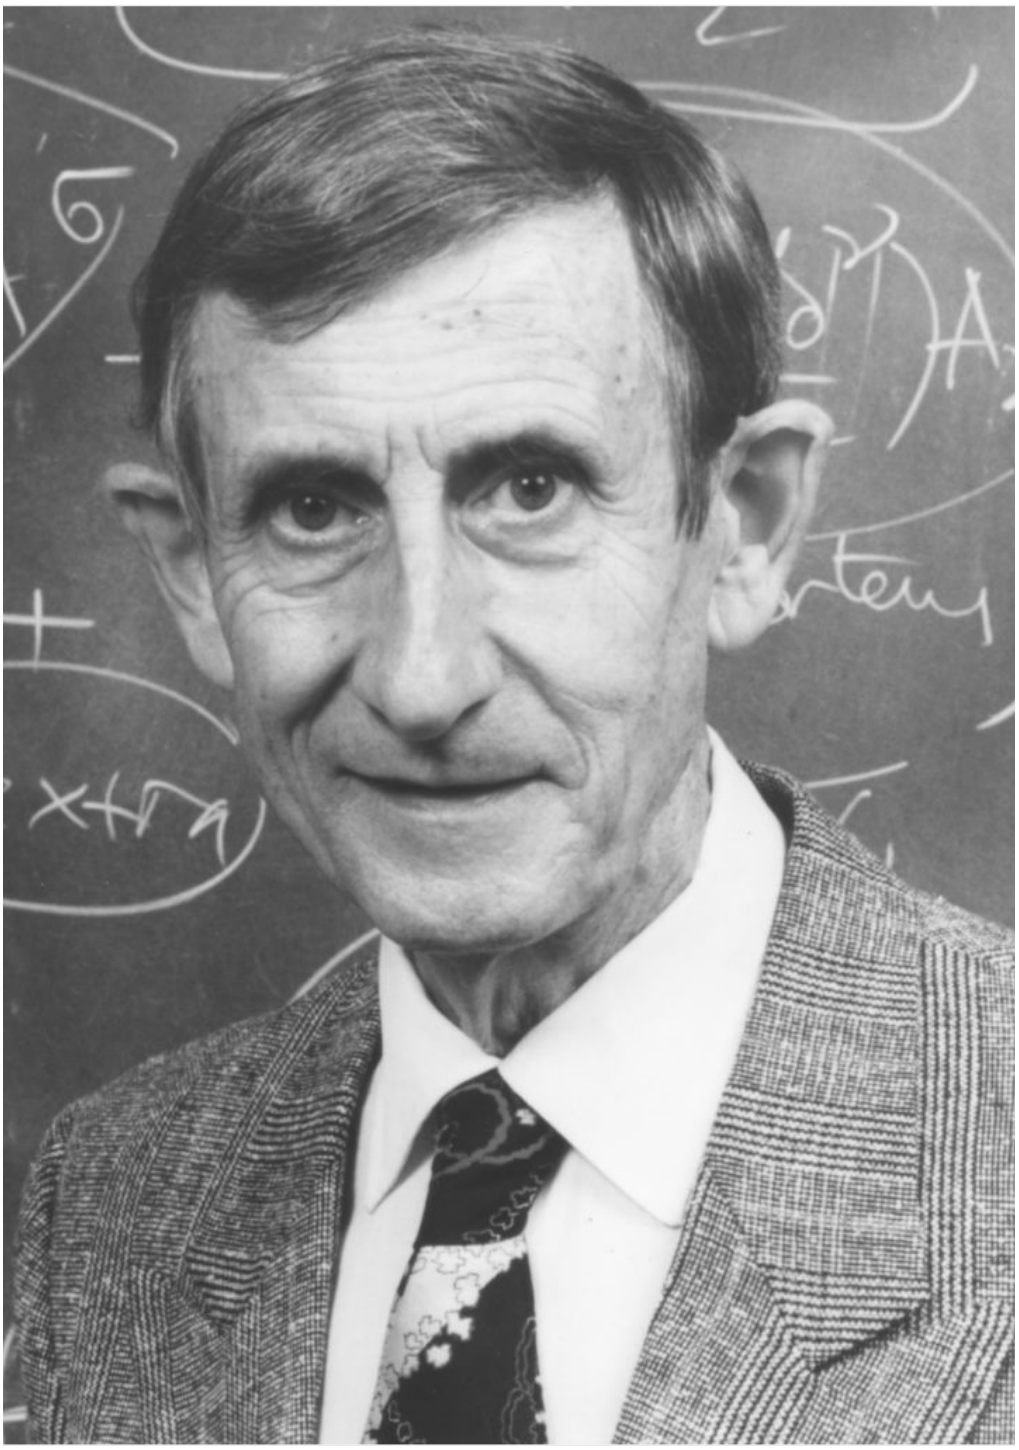
I am grateful for my teachers, who did what they were trained to. Who taught me the nonsense that they did, for without overcoming it and surpassing them, I would never be in the position I am in now.

Now no longer the apprentice, I have no choice but to oppose my masters.

To overcome this evil aim of blinding the world, hatched over the course of centuries, drastic measures are needed. It cannot be attacked from one angle.
The artificial compartment boundaries must be broken apart and joined back together into the truth.

https://www.youtube.com/embed/bku_wFW8nPo

Baka me can't and won't do it alone: All the work has been done for me, by EXTREMELY smart people. People who sadly were too smart to piece it all back together again. Or perhaps they didn't realise the same nonsense & sophistry in their compartment exists in all the other ones!



Only by breaking the boundaries of their respective fields can we get the complete picture and truth of who we are, where we came from and where we are heading.
Without all of these things, we are and will continue to be mere slaves to the evil forces that control this planet.

If you're still not convinced even with such a bold promise, remember, things have gotten so bad that they've got people taking experimental gene therapy as preventative medication and classifying men as women because they feel like it.
The rest of soyance isn't much different!

So without further adieu,
Soyance, grabs book, I declare WAR on you.

Here I go, with my first article, on the origin of oil. I will be working on it for the week[s] to come and won't be online as much (sorry). Wish me luck my frens. I promise it's important and worth it.
/End

In case you don't recognise the man on the bottom-right, it's the intellectual giant, David Bohm. If social media was around during his time, he would be writing this thread.

https://www.youtube.com/embed/r-jl0zzYgIE

• • •