Korobochka (コロボ) 🇦🇺✝️🇷🇺 @cirnosad

Apr 28, 2024 • 12 tweets • cirnosad/status/1784552967892578532

Not many people know this, but Donald Rumsfeld wrote a memo on September 30th, 2011 to President Bush, laying out a plan that included getting Syria out of Lebanon.

In 2005, Rafic Hariri was assassinated, giving the US the excuse to remove Syria from Lebanon via the UNSC.
/🧵

https://twitter.com/cirnosad/status/1784548858774917291

Syria had nothing to do with the assassination but found no support from Russia which was still trying to integrate itself with the west and the WTO. Syria pulled out, taking its air defenses and radars with it, all which had been placed on high points across the Lebanese ranges.

In 2006,Israel invaded Lebanon, which it presumed had no protection or support from Syria. Israel was wrong. Syria supported Hezbollah with long range missile strikes on Israel (unreported) as well as through the provisioning of ATGM specialists and equipment from the SAA itself.

By late 2006, the US changed its national security objectives from the war "against terror" into a war "of terror", allying itself with Al Qaeda and other terrorist organisations.

The aim was to, ultimately, destroy Syria and shift the regional balance in Israel's favour.

ANNALS OF NATIONAL SECURITY

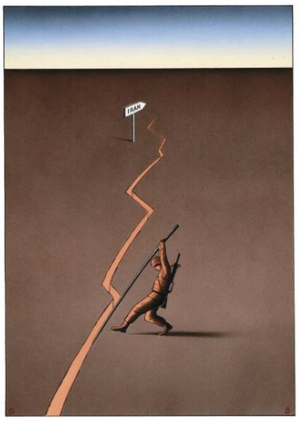
THE REDIRECTION

By Seymour M. Hersh

February 25, 2007

A STRATEGIC SHIFT

In the past few months, as the situation in Iraq has deteriorated, the Bush Administration, in both its public diplomacy and its covert operations, has significantly shifted its Middle East strategy. The "redirection," as some inside the White House have called the new strategy, has brought the United States closer to an open confrontation with Iran and, in parts of the region, propelled it into a widening sectarian conflict between Shiite and Sunni Muslims.



Efforts to curb Iran's influence have involved the United States in worsening Sunni-Shiite tensions. GUY BILLOUT

Elevate your in-box with essential stories. Sign up for The New Yorker daily newsletter.

To undermine Iran, which is predominantly Shiite, the Bush Administration has decided, in effect, to reconfigure its priorities in the Middle East. In Lebanon, the Administration has coöperated with Saudi Arabia's government, which is Sunni, in clandestine operations that are intended to weaken Hezbollah, the Shiite organization that is backed by Iran. The U.S. has also taken part in clandestine operations aimed at Iran and its ally Syria. A by-product of these activities has been the bolstering of Sunni extremist groups that espouse a militant vision of Islam and are hostile to America and sympathetic to Al Qaeda.

Just half a year later, the US pulled off a test run: the Naher-Al Bared conflict. This completely destroyed a Palestinian refugee camp using a "brand new" terrorist group that popped out of no where.

This file was then put on hold due to the economic crisis of 2007-2009.

Location	Fighting: Nahr al-Bared, Tripoli, Ain al-Hilweh Bombings: Beirut, Aley, Zouk Mosbeh Attack on UNIFIL: Khiam
Result	Lebanese victory

Belligerents
Lebanese Armed Forces Internal Security Forces Supported by: United States	Fatah al-Islam Jund al-Sham
Commanders and leaders
Michel Suleiman Francois al-Hajj Chamel Roukoz Antoine Pano Saleh Kais Georges Nader Georges Chreim Hanna Makdessi	Shaker al-Abssi † Abu Youssef Sharqieh (POW) Abu Hureira †
Strength
4,000 troops	450 Fatah militants, 50 Jund militants
Casualties and losses
Northern casualties: 168–179 killed,[4][5] 400–500 wounded[6] Southern casualties: 2 killed, 6 wounded	Fatah al-Islam casualties: 226 killed, 215 captured[5] Jund al-Sham casualties: 5 killed Bomber cells: 7 killed, 18 captured
Civilian casualties: 55 killed in the fighting, 12 killed in the bombings

By 2010, the US was ready to begin its war of terror, with Barak Obama taking the helm. Again, a test run was carried out in Tunisia with some street vendor lighting himself on fire, resulting in a coloured revolution. Egypt was next, then Libya, then ultimately Syria.

From: Jake Sullivan
To: Hillary Clinton
Date: 2012-02-12 09:01
Subject: SPOT REPORT 02/12/II

UNCLASSIFIED U.S. Department of State Case No. F-2014-20439 Doc No. C05789138 Date: 10/30/2015

RELEASE IN FULL

From: Sullivan, JacobJ <SullivanJJ@state.gov>
Sent: Sunday, February 12, 2012 4:01 PM
To:
Subject: Fw:SPOTREPORT02/12/11(SBU)

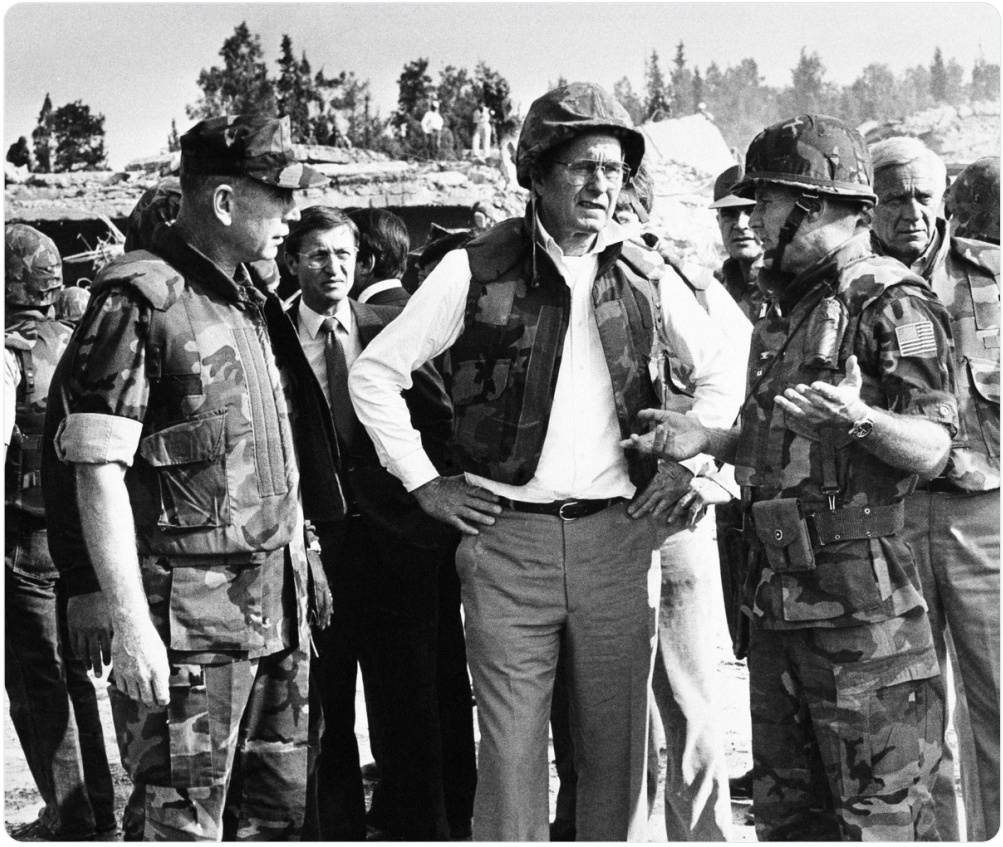
See last item - AQ is on our side in Syria.

Otherwise, things have basically turned out as expected.

The war in Syria is still on-going. But its roots lie in the aftermath of 9/11, and Rumsfeld's notes and planning.

In fact, as I will demonstrate in my final thread (so feel free not to believe me)... Rumsfeld was the mastermind of 9/11.

And these events, strategies and wars are all linked to one technology, which I became very familiar with at an early age, prodded on by the writings of one Australian man...



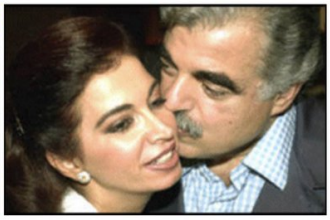
Joe Vialls, a former pilot turned investigator, who had it all figured out from start to finish. One of my personal heroes. I never got the chance to meet him before he succumbed to his illness.
If you want to know the real influence behind my writings it is this man. /End

Zionists Nuke Downtown Beirut - Again!

In a desperate attempt to slow down their forthcoming defeat in Palestine, Jewish Special Forces micro-nuke former Prime Minister Rafik Hariri, then instruct western media outlets to falsely blame the atrocity on Syria

Copyright Joe Vialls, 16 February 2005

19 Feb: Lebanese Army General Proves Bomb was Pre-positioned Underground



Devoted husband Rafik Hariri in happier days with wife Nazek, flanked on the left and right by photographs of ground zero in Beirut, filmed before and after the micro-nuke was detonated by remote control in an underground sewage conduit. A large very clear image of the complete crater profile is shown further down this page.

Though it will have very little impact on western sheeple watching CNN, the Islamic Republic of Iran Broadcasting Service issued a statement from its Damascus office on 15 January 2005, which reads in part: "A senior official at [the] Syrian information ministry condemned the assassination of former Lebanese Prime Minister Rafiq Hariri on Monday, saying, 'all over Syria the people are furious and angry over this criminal act and mad at its perpetrators.'

The Ministry spokesman continued, "Syria continues its firm support for Lebanon, especially in such a tense situation in which enemies are determined to destabilize Lebanon's tranquility and security, but, God-willing, they will never succeed" ..."by killing the Lebanese political leaders, the enemies of Lebanon and Syria are trying to restore coarseness in Lebanon again".

Finally, the Syrian spokesman concluded, "Lebanon's enemies are displeased with the Lebanese peoples' victory against Zionist occupant forces and opposed to the establishment of tranquility in Lebanon that is playing an effective role in the region. So, by committing such terrorist and criminal acts they are trying to weaken Lebanon once again. The ultimate goal of these crimes is fulfillment of Israel's desires and pushing forth their war-monger policies".

P.S. Douglas Feith vindicated Joe Vialls well after his passing.
archive.is/ghYSa

This is a remarkable passage. It encapsulates the priorities and problems of U.S. strategy in the opening act of America's intervention in Afghanistan. Feith saw military operations in Afghanistan as a choice between a punitive campaign of retribution and a preemptive campaign designed to disrupt future Al-Qaeda operations and build an international environment inimical to terrorist activity. Rumsfeld was laser focused on the latter aim. No matter how many times I read them, his articulation of the campaign's war aims amazes me. Feith quotes a memo from September 30th, sent by Donald Rumsfeld to the president, that lays them out:

> If the war does not significantly change the world's political map, the U.S. will not achieve its aim. There is value in being clear on the order of magnitude of the necessary change. The USG [U.S. government] should envision a goal along these lines:
>
> • New regimes in Afghanistan and [some other states] that support terrorism (to strengthen political and military efforts to change policies elsewhere).
> • Syria out of Lebanon.
> • Dismantlement or destruction of WMD in [key states].
> • End of many other countries' support or tolerance of terrorism. [18]

ARAB NEWS

LATEST NEWS / Business & Economy IsDB chief vows to support private sector in member states

Home / Rolling Back Syria: Hariri's Murder as a Pretext

Rolling Back Syria: Hariri's Murder As A Pretext

Author:
Ramzy Baroud, Aljazeera.net English.
Publication Date:
Wed, 2005-11-02 03:00
The Syria verdict is out. In fact, it has been out long before German investigator judge Detlev Mehlis submitted his report on the assassination of former Lebanese Prime Minister Rafik Hariri on Feb. 14.

There is little that Syria can say or do to keep the hordes at bay, save offerings of stern political concessions, mainly to Israel and the United States.

For decades, Lebanon has been the stage for a regional and international power play, in which various Arab countries, Israel and the United States have been engrossed. These power-brokers manipulated the country's political alliances, poured in money, supplied weapons, helped validate some players and marginalize others. While Syria had its own inventory of alliances, Israel had and still maintains some proxies, as well as Washington with its right-wing Lebanese Christians, Iran its militias, and even Iraq, during the Baath party reign, had its share of meddling.

@drbairdonline

September 30th 2001* I'm sorry.

• • •