Korobochka (コロボ) @cirnosad

Oct 28, 2024 · 1 tweets · cirnosad/status/1850693456492109936

You're meant to build a life together with a woman, but the Neanderthals convinced women to become men and try to build a life in parallel while engaging in the worst forms of debauchery.
95% of western women had a body count of 5 or above in 2020 and today it's even higher.

The crazy thing is right wing influencer's solution to this problem isn't to admit that these women are destroyed and the Neanderthals must be stopped — but to try and normalise and reward this behaviour.

And this behaviour was called prostitution just 120 years ago in England. A woman with a body count was known as a prostitute.

They want men who built a life alone to open the door to these prostitutes, while laws exist on the books that allow them to steal everything you earnt and everything you will ever earn.

These people are worse than thieves, they are murderers. They play with statistics saying men who get married live longer. But here's the trick: they don't include divorced men in the "married statistics".
The divorced man is far more likely to commit suicide or die of misery, than the unmarried man. The married man is not divorced by definition, so essentially the divorced man makes the unmarried man seem to live a shorter life — but it's marrying a woman that killed him.

Today a man gets nothing out of marriage — if a man is obsessed with sex, sex ends once you're married and the prostitute has spawned enough child support burdens for you. He could get more sex by paying for it — the only way to get it for most men today.
If a man wants companionship, I've never seen men who are more alone than married ones. They are kept away from their male friends as well, because prostitutes are extra vindictive.
If a man wanted greater wealth, he will have absolute poverty as women are taught to spend her husband's money in order to make him less attractive to other women.
If he wanted masculinity he will be emasculated and will never be able to look himself in the mirror.

The solution isn't to get married and spawn liabilities for yourself.
The solution is to destroy the system. To burn the farm down, and then build your kingdom on its ashes — with your rules and not the Neanderthal's.

And the prostitutes can all be deported to India. We should gladly take a hit on population for a few generations if it means we will get a pure batch of people in the future.

Then all of us who survive the harrowing will be doing what we were meant to do: building lives with women who are worthy of being called our own, and creating children that honor God instead of the ones today that do Satan's biddings.

...